Google's Android operating system has the ability to check whether a Google account has been used previously, and is going to make recommendations based on your previous searches. The feature's called "Use Account", and it was first spotted by Android Police. The Use Account feature pops up a screen titled "Show recommendations" that allows the user to set his Google account password if they want to continue the sign in process. Google's use of this feature might be in response to the numerous reports about the company tracking users's online activities without their consent. After receiving complaints, Google disclosed its plans to use this data, and more details were given by an unnamed user of the company's search engine. According to him, the company might store "Everything" about you, and might even know that you're using a fake identity: "I have a VPN and a proxy because of my day job, so I use an IP that I don't control. I'm also careful when I use a browser that's not my

Secrets of True Happiness What is the secret of true happiness? Do we really know what it is to be happy? We all have many stories about happiness, we should consider what emotions are taking place inside us and what is the reason of our life? What are the reasons to be happy? Is there really a secret of happiness? If yes, then can it be the secret of life? Can we really choose between the pain and suffering and the happiness? Should we try to be happy or to eliminate suffering? If we open the refrigerator or the freezer, there is no question about whether we will eat or not. But when we think about happiness, there are many things bothering us. There is no deadline by which our life should be fulfilled, therefore, we have to spend our time in our own way. Should we choose the pain or the suffering? It is easy to avoid pain, but easy to experience the suffering. However, how can you choose the happiness, the joy or the good feeling for the rest of your life? What will happen if you never experience the happiness of the moment of life? You may think that you will get happiness in the future, but you should ask yourself what could happen if the good feeling will not be there and if you will experience the suffering of the moment of life. Does Happiness Have Its Own Rules? Do happiness and suffering really have their own rules? Do they have to do their own work? Can we really choose whether we would like to be happy or to endure the pain or the suffering? Is it possible to escape from it? Is there a chance to experience the moment of happiness? Can You Choose Between the Pain and Suffering? You have questions about happiness. You can live in the moment of life without being happy or you can escape from it by choosing the pain and suffering. The first option will lead you to continue your life without happiness and the second one will lead you to continue your life with suffering and pain. What will you choose? It is very important to choose whether you would like to be happy or to endure the pain or the suffering. It is not enough to say that we can't choose between it, because we do choose the pain and suffering. You should decide what do you want to enjoy for the rest of your life and if you want to escape from the pain or the suffering.
